What one, I thought most lightly tasked Of God's unnumbered host-I'd say, I'd be a mountain boy, And drive a noble team, Wo, hoy! Wo, hoy! I'd ery And lightly fly

Into my saddle seat, My rein I'd slack-My whip I'd erack, What music is so sweet!

Six blacks I'd drive of ample chest, All earrying high the head; All harness'd tight and gally drest In winkers tipp'd with red-Oh yes, I'd be a mountain boy, And such a team, I'd drive, We, hoy! We, hoy! I'd ery,

The lint should fly-We, hoy! you Dobbin! Ball! Their feet should ring And I would sing. I'd sing my fal de rol. My bells would tingle, tingle ling,

Beneath each bear skin cap And as I saw them swing and swing, I'd be the merriest chap-Yes, then I'd be a mountain boy And drive a gingling team, Wo, hoy! Wo hoy! I'd cry

My words should fly Each horse would prick his car; With tighten'd chain. My lumbering wain Would move in its cureer.

The golden sparks, you'd see them spring Each tau, I'd braid it up with string Of blue or flamting red; So does, you know, the mountain boy, Who drives a dashing team, We, key!

We how! I'd sry-Each horse's eve With fire would seem to burn, With lifted hand and nostril spread They'd seem the earth to spura-

They'd champ the bit and fling the foam As on they dragged my lend; And I would think of distant home, And whistle upon the road-Oh! would I were a mountain boy-I'd drive a six horse tenen, We, hoy!

Wo, hoy! I'd ery Now, by you sky I'd sooner drive those steeds Than win renown, Or wear a crown Won by victorious deeds.

For growns oft press the languid head, And health the wearer shuns, And victory trampling on the dead, Muy do for Goths and Huns-Seek them who will, they have no joys For mountain lads and waggon boys.
